GROWTH . . .

For the Boy Jesus, growth pursued the normal, progressive pattern. Just as any Mother glories in the progress of her child, so Mary joyfully contemplated the gradual unfolding of His successive stages of development and the ripening of His physical and mental abilities, capacities and powers from childhood to adolescence, from the fullness of youth to the perfect manhood. Thus her Son, our Brother, grew "in wisdom and age and grace with God and men."

To Mary, the Mother of God, the Class of '58 dedicates the EAGLE, our book of four years' growth. Our Catholic school training has aimed to mold us into men and women of character, ready to embrace any sacrifice which true living of our convictions will certainly demand. May Mary, Our Mother, help us to grow not alone in power and knowledge but, year and hour, in reverence and personal love for Christ, Our Leader and Lord.

GROWTH is a four-fold process, physical, intellectual, moral and social. The Catholic educational plan includes guidance and direction of all the capacities of body and soul.

For our moral training, we have our priests as SPIRITUAL LEADERS. Monsignor Grundner and Father Gallagher have been through their instructions and activities, an integral part in helping us to grow in the art of Christian living.

Ideals are fundamental in life; youth cannot grow without them. Our patient and understanding principal, Sister Mary Agnes, has by word and example aimed to form Christ in our hearts so that we may always think aright, act aright and live aright.

School does not confine itself within the narrow walls of a building. Our Sisters have tried to make us realize that the world is our school, our place of growth and learning and that every place that the eye of heaven visits becomes to the true savant "school" in the exact sense of the word. To our united, untiring and understanding teachers, we are eternally grateful.

A PRAYER OF YOUTH

AS I stand here on the threshold of manhood I cast my eyes heavenward for Your tender guidance. I ask of You, dear Jesus, to help me to put away all my childish whims and desires and to grasp that which is expected of me as a young man.

Take my hand and lead me across the stepping stones that lead from childhood to manhood. Help me to take each step with an awareness of Your love for me. Should I let my weakness overpower me, dear Jesus, and I fall, give me the courage to start again as You did three times on the way to Calvary.

Let me always make headway and never let me look back or try to take the easy way out when temptations of youth befall me. May Your Divine Way of the Cross be a constant reminder for me as I meet the many obstacles a youth must encounter in becoming a God-loving man.

Then, dear Jesus, when I have successfully completed the long journey from childhood to manhood may I be able to look back and see my youth as something pure - the pure memory of Your ever-loving protection of me. Amen.

Indulgence 100 days.

JUNIOR CLASS HISTORY

In September, we jubilantly emerged as the "jolly Juniors." Under the careful guidance of Sister Mary Damien, we eagerly anticipated an exciting and memorable year.

As the days and weeks slipped by, we plunged into our studies which included some new and baffling subjects. Reciting French verbs, solving for 'x' and mastering the techniques of English III presented a struggle.

Reminiscing over the past year's activities, we recall appearing on Teen Bandstand, attending the Senior ring ceremony and the "Fantasia" prom in late December. Socially the Juniors were at their best, actively supporting dances, roller skating parties and basketball.

All too soon the year has passed and we are faced with the responsibility of following in the footsteps of the 'Class of 58'.

A pleasant lunch period passes as the Juniors tell the jokes of the day.

Erie Street bordered with autumn leaves is a very pleasant sight.

Even dating may involve teamwork. Senior, Joe Kondracki helps Junior, Steve Jones solve the "girl problem."

As the hi-fi plays the strains of "The King and I" Frances Adams and Mary Doloway listen appreciatively.

Sophomore Class History

Each September, fresh from the ranks of the "peagreen Freshmen" the "wise old Sophs" determine to leave their indelible mark on St. John's.

As we relive the year's experiences, we fondly recall struggling through THE HISTORY OF CIVILIZATION, especially that extra sixth period each week and then diligently trying to decipher "Veni, vidi, vici" for Sister Mary Chabanel. As to our math course, all the Sophomores agreed, it was fun drawing those squares, triangles and circles in geometry class.

On the extracurricular side, we proudly note that we attended St. John's first prom, decorated for the Pow-Wow dance and provided the school with vivacious cheerleaders and active basketball players.

As we eagerly anticipate graduating to the rank of "Juniors," we wistfully say good-bye to Sister Mary Vincent and thank her for helping us imprint our mark as Sophomores at St. John's.

B. Huestis agrees to join the band-wagon. He reached the top on boosters! Congratulations, Bill!

"And away we go!" exclaims E. Benish as she bursts through the door after school.

Free as a breeze is M. Anderson and P. Faas as they enjoy the sites of the town from over the tree tops.

"I'm thinking," declares B. Huestis as he industriously gnaws on his pen.

"Let me see," begs J. Garguilo.

FRESHMAN CLASS HISTORY

A cool crisp September morning arrived and the Fall semester brought new and unfamiliar faces to the halls of St. John's. There, we were the incoming Freshmen--very unsure and just a little bit scared.

The first obstacle we had to hurdle was the new subject Latin! Science and algebra also presented a challenge. However, we proved that we had mastered them at the Awards Assemblies.

Throughout the year we demonstrated our newly acquired school spirit. The Freshmen were always in evidence at the school outings and at all social gatherings.

Moving-up day finally arrived and we, the Freshmen, had completed our first year. No longer were we the "pea-green Frosh," for now were ready to leave the ever watchful eye of Sister Mary Chabanel and become "wise old Sophs."

The Tuesday in Mardi Gras finds Eileen Lewis having difficulty in selecting the last bar of sweets until after the Lenten season.

These freshmen, Donna Black and Susan Lally are talking about breaking a hundred at the Bowl o Fun while Martin Hagen, Paul Nigra, and William Huestis seem less confident.

The map of the heavens helps the freshmen to identify the stars projected by the Planetarium. Sister Mary Vincent seems pleased at the interest exhibited by her general science students.

MONTHS OF

THE STUDENT COUNCIL

St. John's has an active Student Council which consists of ten representatives chosen by the pupils. During the year requests from the students for various dances and roller skating parties are acted upon by this group and with the permission of the Principal, are carried into effect.

Left: John Galvin, President of the Student Council, in his opening address, promises to uphold the rules and regulations of the school.

Below: The Student Council is informally assembled; planning for the coming year's activities.

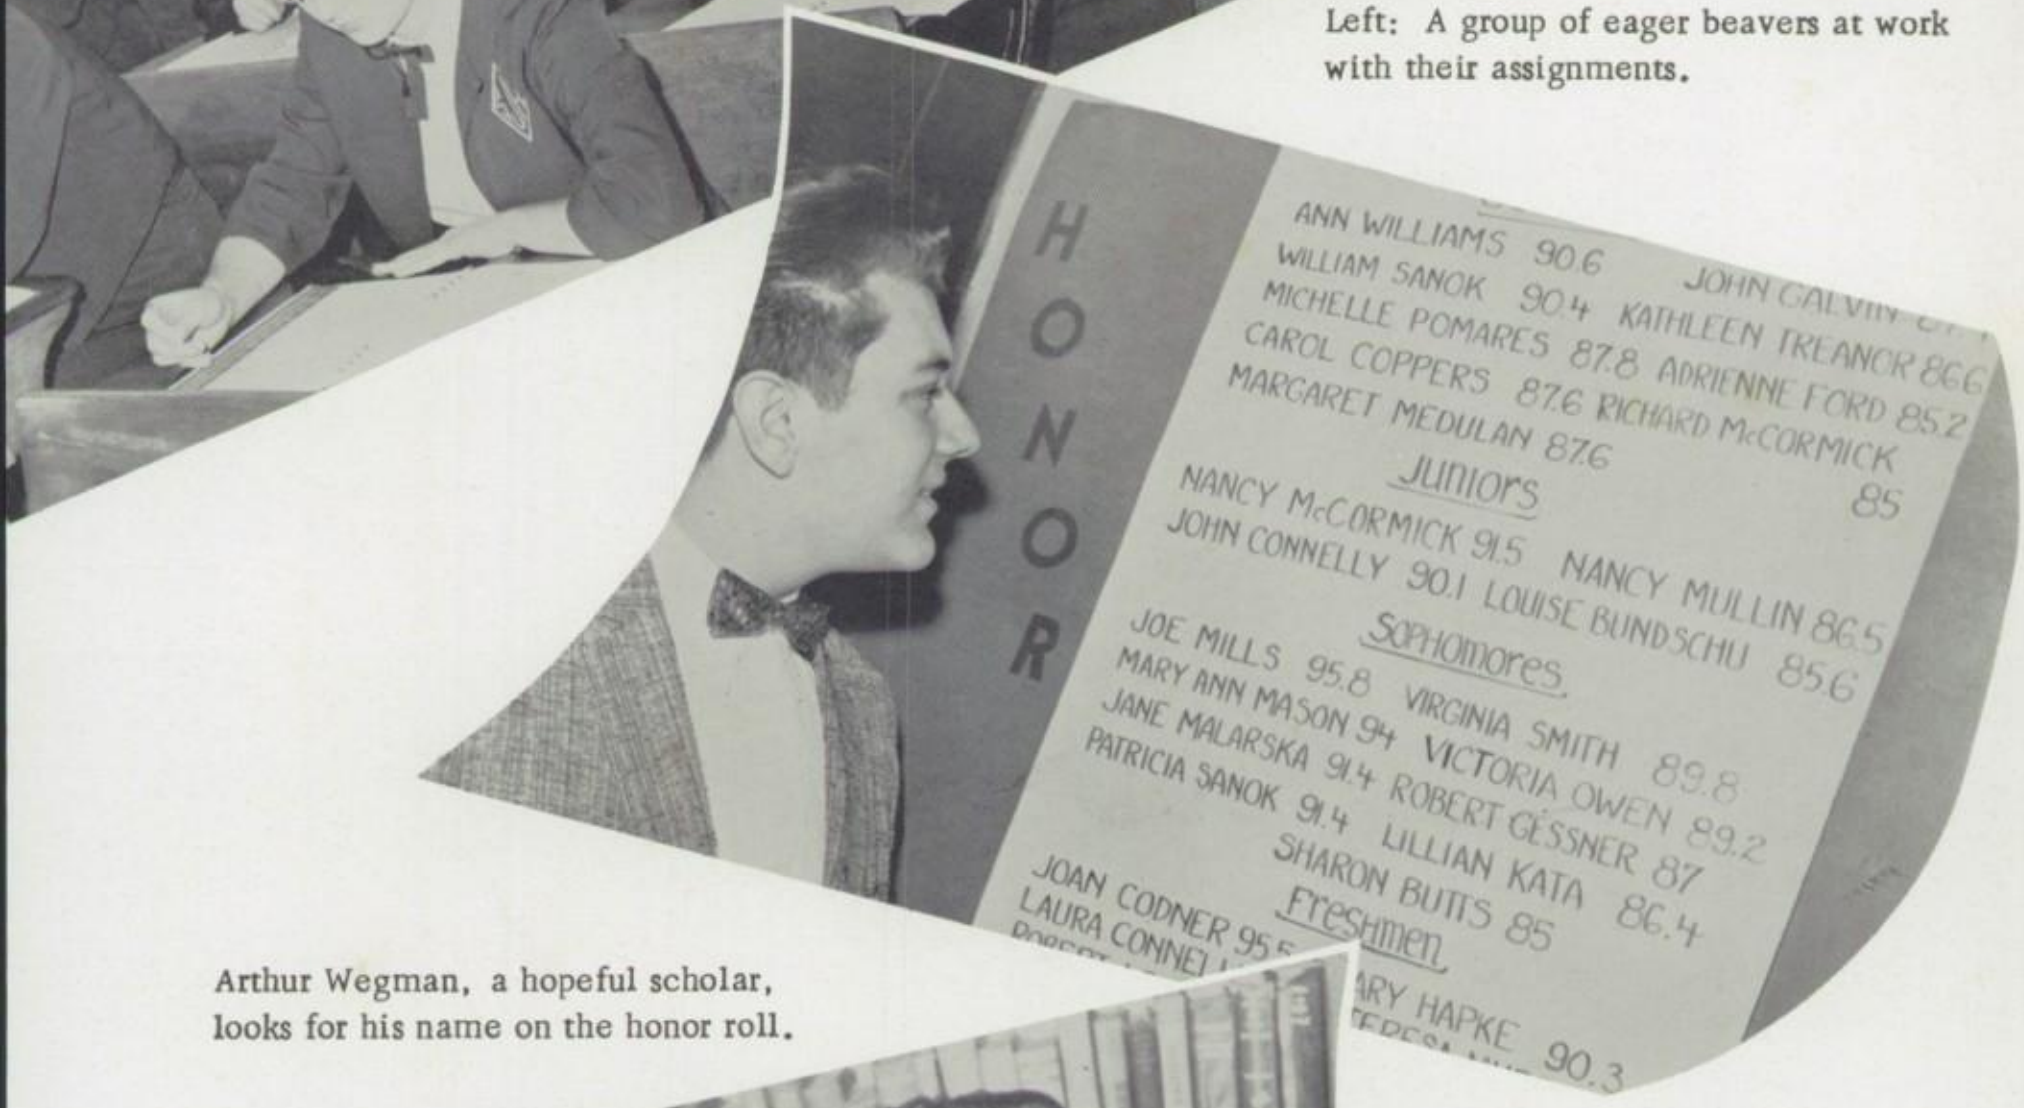
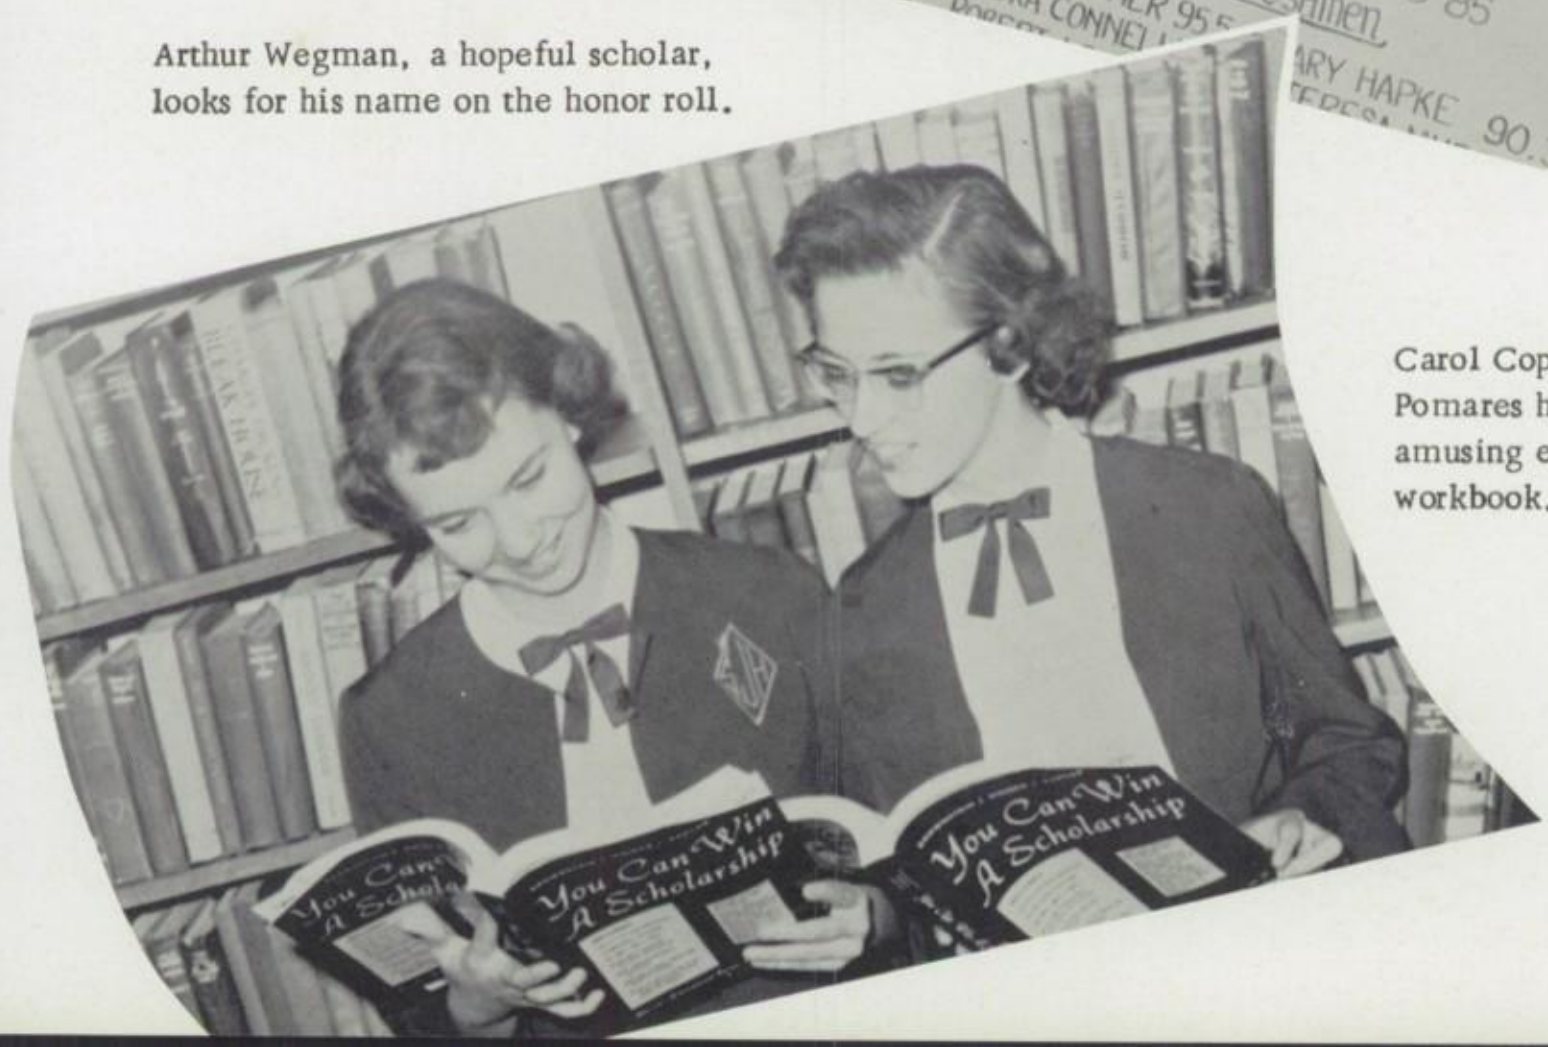
SCHOLARSHIP

In October 1957, a special Saturday morning class was inaugurated for those students who were in the upper quarter of their class and who desired preparation for the various scholarship tests.

Left: A group of eager beavers at work with their assignments.



Arthur Wegman, a hopeful scholar, looks for his name on the honor roll.



Carol Coppers and Michelle Pomares have found something amusing even in a scholarship workbook.

Monsignor Grundner exhorts the Seniors to always be mindful of the principles and ideals which the St. John's ring symbolizes.

OCTOBER

On the feast of Christ the King, October 27, 1957, twenty-four Seniors breathlessly awaited their turn to receive their coveted school rings. To them the ring is a symbol of all that St. John's holds dear and speaks of pleasant memories and former friendships. Parents and friends joined in offering congratulations to the happy Seniors. A dinner party at the Eureka made a perfect ending for this not-to-be-forgotten occasion.

Below: The long awaited moment has arrived! At long last this ring is really ours to enjoy.

Our parents joined us at our ring ceremony and here smiling faces reflect their pride in their Senior sons and daughters.

"My, that was a delicious meal!" All seem to agree as they relax after dinner.

This looks like the Mutual Admiration Society as the Seniors with unconcealable pride display their rings to each other.

A final farewell as the evening draws to a close.

This year saw the "Spotlight" once again under the direction of our moderator, Sister Mary Damien. With Nancy Mullin as Editor-in-Chief, the paper introduced several new features. We are especially proud of our new mascot, "Sparkie". The selfless dedication and sacrifice of our staff members resulted in the production of a truly fine newspaper. Each edition of the "Spotlight" provides a link in the chain of growth of our school news.

K. Treanor, M. Folger, and M. Medulan scan through "exchanges" before opening the season of our '58 edition.

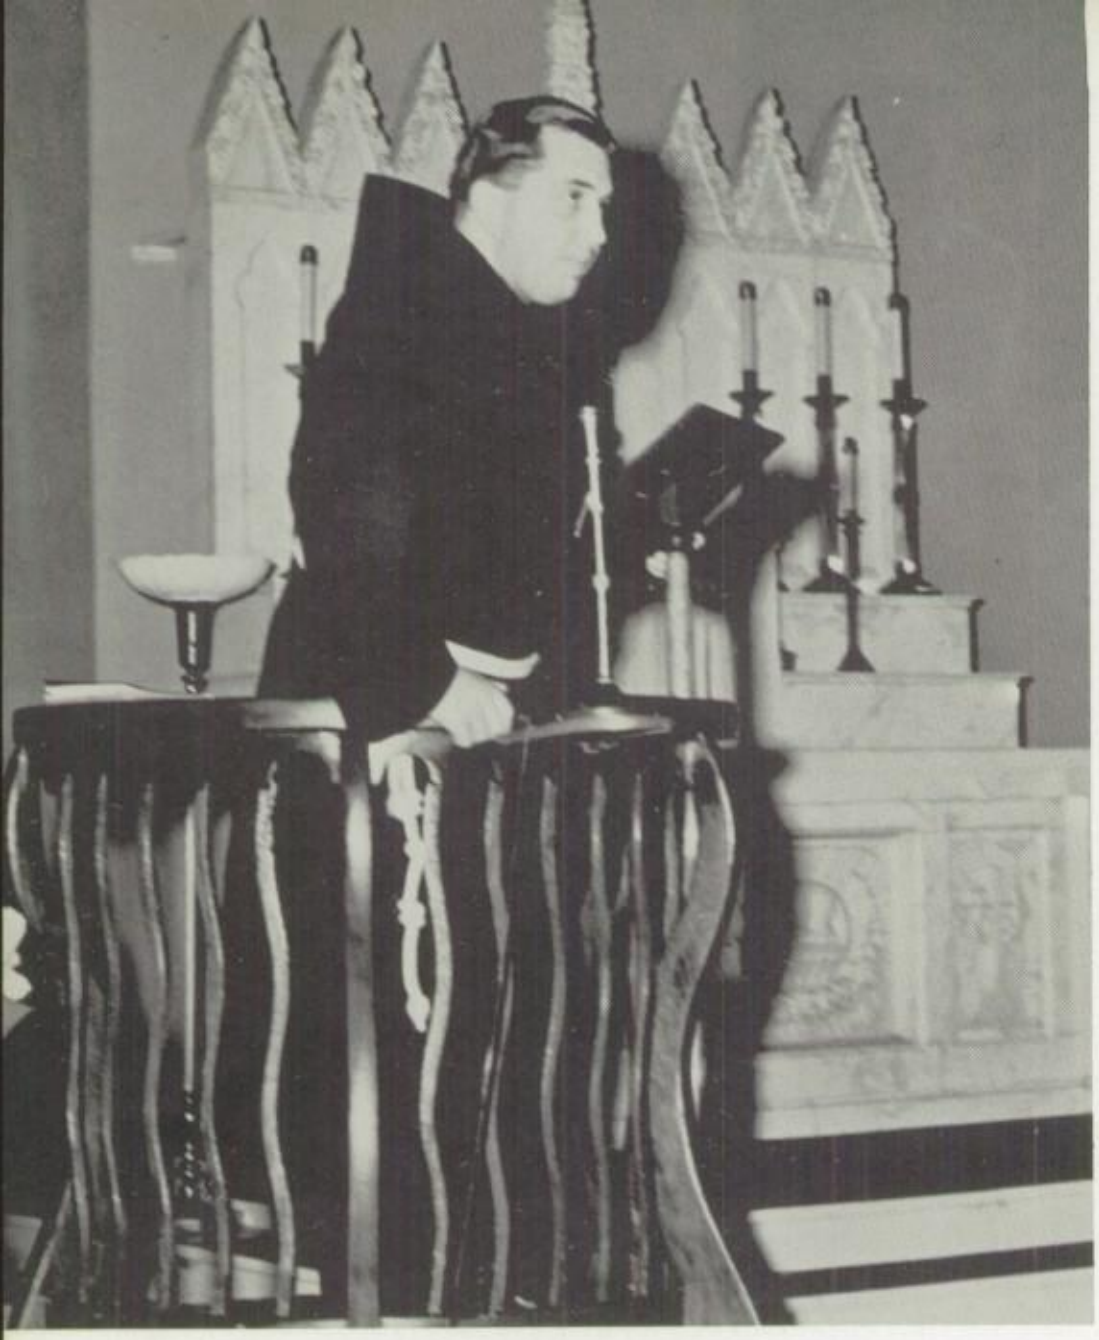
Early in the fall term, yearbook planning starts. Sr. Mary Stanislaus discusses here the Senior write-ups. The printer's deadlines are hard to meet, but cooperation is our keynote and our yearbook does come through.



RETREAT

December 5, 1957 found the students of St. John's beginning their annual retreat. Meditative reading, rosaries, appropriate sermons and Holy Mass constituted the rule for three prayerful days. Mary's mantle hovered over all as a protective canopy. Rapt attention characterized our retreatants and thus inspiration was gained at all the conferences. Our corridors echoed with silent hushed footsteps these days. The spiritual benefits derived, we hope, will be reflected in our future lives.

PRESENTATION DAY

Here at St. John's we have the privilege of having the Presentation Sisters as our Faculty.

Each year we celebrate Presentation Day, the titular feast of our Sisters. This year the Seniors presented a radio script about the Foundress of the Presentation Order, Nano Nagle. Our play expressed the feelings of love and gratitude we feel for the Presentation Sisters.

BOWLING BEAUX

"There will be some changes made," declares A. Ford as she makes the necessary revisions on the score sheet. M. Medulan, J. Kondracki, J. Weigel, A. Williams, R. Ostrowski and J. Sosler agree.

Cries of "A strike!" are often heard when St. Johns invades the Bowl o' Fun alley each Monday afternoon. This activity is enthusiastically supported by even the "gutter ball" throwers and there are strong feelings of competition as each team grimly decides to show up their opponents.

The roughest game of the season is still to come so R. Mylinski, R. McCormick and W. Murray practice their winning technique.

POW WOW DANCE

One of the highlights of the month of November was the POW-WOW dance, typical of the many school dances. To be found there were the beaming teens who shared enthusiasm and even cokes during the evening intermissions. Round and round they'd go and as the evening gave way, they knew that more pleasant memories of months of growing at St. John's had been tucked away.

FANTASIA

Our first annual prom was conducted at St. John's on December 27. Sophomores, Juniors and Seniors all did their share decorating the gym which was miraculously transformed into a ballroom.

Girls in their lovely formals and boys in their best suits danced starry-eyed to the music of the Joe Watkins Orchestra. The evening was climaxed with the crowning of Carol Coppers and Mike Dineen as Queen and King of Fantasia. The court consisted of Margaret Medulan and Dick McCormick.

The Student Council, John Galvin and Regina Joyce, with the crown bearers, James Joyce and Kim Osborn, advance toward the thrones.

KISSED ME"

In early April the Senior Class presented a tender, warmhearted comedy, "Jenny Kissed Me." The play concerns a charming young girl, Jenny, who has been brought to live in the household of an elderly priest, Father Moynihan, by her aunt, Mrs. Deazy, a scheming but faithful housekeeper. Jenny is not a smart sophisticated miss and the plot is concerned with the priest's clumsy endeavors to get Jenny married so that she will leave St. Matthew's rectory. He is so successful that he nearly overplays his hand. A romance runs through the play and is made doubly amusing by several young girls and a young boy who manage to make Jenny "hep." Or rather, so they believe, since Jenny remains to the end a simple and naive girl who wins the heart of the young educator, Michael, who loves her for her intellectual keenness and sincerity.

THE GLEE CLUB

The melodious tones of St. John's Glee Club delight the student body throughout the year when they perform at the school luncheon, Christmas caroling and at the annual play. Pictured in the front row are: N. McCormick, N. Mullin, L. Kata, J. Malarska, L. Boyle, M. Cunningham. Second row: C. Terricino, A. Smith, V. Owens, M. A. Mason, M. Lewis, B. Fleming. Third row: E. Prickett, F. Adams, M. Vuolo, E. Benish, E. Dolan, R. Snee. Fourth row: L. Bundschu, S. Butts, V. Smith, P. Sanok, T. Bundschu, K. Edwards, J. Porpara, J. Jazwinski, C. DeFesi, and S. Jones.

THANK YOU

The Class of 1958 wishes to express its gratitude.

...to the Sisters for their cooperation;
... to the undergraduates for their generosity in the drive;
... to all the sponsors and patrons for their generous contributions;
... to Mr. Matthew Babula for his photography.
